Invitation Letter

Dear Prof. Ning Jiao

On behalf of the organizing committee of the 19th IUPAC International Symposium on Organometallic Chemistry Directed Towards Organic Synthesis(OMCOS19), it is with great pleasure to invite you to OMCOS19 to be held in Jeju of South Korea from June 25-29, 2017.

The OMCOS series of biennial symposia started in 1981. Over the years, it has gained the status of being an important global event in the areas of organometallics and catalysis.

The scientific program for OMCOS19 conference will include plenary lectures, invited lectures, and short lectures in a single-session. Poster sessions are also planned in the fields of organometallics and catalysis regarding original and innovative ideas.

This symposium will bring together chemists from industry and academia from around the world and it is centered on the most recent advances in new metal-catalyzed and metal-promoted reactions, mechanistic insights and new applications, novel preparations and uses of organometallic reagents, as well as ingenious and improved methods for the synthesis of pharmaceuticals, agrochemicals and materials.

We are delighted to invite you to participate in this grand occasion for the sharing of ideas, friendship, and culture. We look forward to seeing you in the fantastic island, Jeju, this June.

Sincerely yours,

The Organizing Committee of OMCOS19
